

Practice French

Practice German

Practice Italian

Practice Spanish

Practice Portuguese

+Babbel

OneKindPlanet | Animals | Domesticated, Excellent sense of smell, Herbivore, Intelligent, Social | Goat

- Animal A-Z
- Goat

Share + Love

Like | Retweet | Favorite (277)

Mother and kid goats recognise each others' calls soon after the mothers give birth.

1st Grade2nd Grade3rd Grade4th Grade5th Grade6th Grade7th Grade8th Grade

Real learning can be really fun

Adapted Mind

Amazing Facts About the Goat

- Goats are social animals, however unlike sheep, who they are closely related to, they are not flock-orientated.
- Goats communicate with each other by bleating. Mothers will often call to their young (kids) to ensure they stay close-by. Mother and kid goats recognise each other's calls soon after the mothers give birth.
- Kids can follow their mothers almost immediately after being born. They are very close to their mothers and are weaned after around 6 months.
- Goats are very intelligent and curious animals. Their inquisitive nature is exemplified in their constant desire to explore and investigate anything unfamiliar which they come across.
- Goats have excellent coordination. They have great balance and are thus able to survive in precarious areas such as steep mountains. They can even climb trees and some species can jump over 5 feet high.

1st Grade2nd Grade3rd Grade4th Grade5th Grade6th Grade7th Grade8th Grade

Real learning can be really fun

Adapted Mind

16 Goats In A Tree

Share

Watch on YouTube

LO STAMBECCO..... alla ricerca "disperata" di sali ...

Share

Watch on YouTube

Find more animals like this

- Domesticated
- Excellent Sense Of Smell
- Herbivore
- Intelligent
- Social

See how you could be rewarded.

Banking packages from Scotiabank.

Learn more

Quick Facts

Type: Mammal

Diet: Herbivore

:undefined

See how you could be rewarded.

Banking packages from Scotiabank.

Learn more